DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

2. Claim 1,2, and 6-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Day (US 2002/0098126 A1).

3. Regarding Claim 1, Day teaches a tube for storing micro-liter volumes ([0003], a body portion of substantially square cross section ([0089]), a shoulder portion at said one end of the body portion and providing the open end of the tube, the cross section of the shoulder portion being greater than that of the body portion (Figures 13 and 14) and a formation providing a snap fit connector portion at the other end ([0075]).

4. For Claim 2, Day teaches a tube according to Claim 1, further comprising a closure member disposed to close the open end ([0003]).

5. For Claim 6, Day teaches a tube according to claim 1, wherein the body and shoulder portions are formed separately from the snap fit connector portion ([0013] and [0026-0028]).

6. For Claim 7, Day teaches a tube according to claim 1, wherein the snap fit connector has a dot code on it ([0026-0028, and 0104]).

7. For Claim 8, Day teaches a tube according to claim 1 the body and shoulder portions are formed from a translucent or transparent material ([0074] and [0103]).

8. For Claim 9, Day teaches a tube according to claim 8, further comprising a spigot at the interface between the body portion and the snap fit connector portion ([0096]).

Art Unit: 1709

9. For Claim 10, Day teaches a tube according to claim 1 wherein the body portion and snap fit connector are co-moulded ([0076] and Claim 22).

10. For Claim 11, Day teaches a tube for storing fluid, the tube being open at one end and comprising a body portion of substantially square cross section; a shoulder portion at said one end of the body portion and providing the open end of the tube, the cross section of the shoulder portion being greater than that of the body portion; and a flared snap fit connector portion at the closed end of the tube; said flared snap fit connector portion having an identification code provided thereon ([0013], [0089], Figures 13 and 14, and [0104]).

11. For Claim 12, Day teaches a tube according to claim 11 wherein the connector and body portions are formed separately from different materials ([0074 and [0094]).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

12. Claims 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Day (US 2002/0098126 A1) in view of Helger et al (US 3759374) and Stanchfield et al (US 6479020B1). Day teaches a tube according to claim 1. Day does not teach wherein the closure member is a foil cap, self sealing member nor a split septum. Helger et al teaches the closure member comprising a foil cap (Column 2 lines 30-50) and Stanchfield et al teaches the closure member comprising a self sealing member or split septum (Column 11 lines 25-40). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Day in view of Helger et al and Stanchfield et al because according to Helger et al, using a foil cap can be advantageous when the sample of interest needs to be freeze dried and must be sealed for preservation reasons, sample containers sealed with foil caps provide a very good seal, can withstand an internal pressure of 2 atm, and the foil can be removed or punctured to remove the sample at a later time (Column 4 lines 50-60 and Column 5 lines 0-5). According to Stanchfield et al, the rubber materials are chemical resistant and are well known for forming septa for sealing round bottom flasks and Erlenmeyer Flasks and other containers commonly used by researchers (Column 11 lines 29-40).
